Newell Burnham of Barton quarreled with his wife, and recently left her to the care of the overseer of the poor. He afterward snatched her young baby from her and had it driven away, while he dragged the woman fainting into the house and left her. The wife is nearly insane and the neighbors are highly indignant over the affair.

Over the affair.

The supply of onions from the Cornwall onion district is perhaps not so large as usual, but the quality is good. A good many Cornwall men got caught last year by raising a very large crop of onions, which they had to very large crop of onions, which they had to very large crop of onions, which they had to typography suited to all eyes.

E. P. W. very large crop of onlons, which they had to seil at a very low price in order to get rid of them at all. This year they seem to have been more cautious, and they now are getting forty cents per bushel for their crop at the cars in Middlebury.

MIDDLEBURY held a town meeting last week Tuesday and voted $4,000 to fit up the new town hall. There was much opposition, as many supposed the $16,000 originally voted would cover everything. A sarcastic motion to appropriate $5,000 to fit up the grounds was amended to read $500 and passed. Bonds payable in seven years and redeemable after two years, at the option of the town, drawing five per cent interest, will be issued to cover the appropriations.

appropriations. A PRELIMINARY examination pertaining to the Cambridgeport woolen-mill fire, which occurred last August only a few hours after it was insured, and which has been widely commented upon because of the fact that the owner of the mill, Robert Fitton, had burned out eight times before, was begun before Judge Wyman, at Martin & Eddy's office, at Brattleboro, Tuesday. Colonel W. S. B. Hopkins of Worcester appeared for the companies, and Lawyer Goddard of Ludlow for Fitton.

THE commissioner of pensions has discovered irregularities in the practice of Belva A. Lockwood, the female lawyer who has a large number of cases pending before the pension bureau, and it is understood that the question of suspending her from practice before the bureau is now being considered by the commissioner and secretary of the interior.

THE Hon. T. H. Murch, ex-congressman from The Hon. T. H. Murch, ex-congressman from Maine, is fitting up a gorgeous ideor store on Essex street, Boston, which he will open in a few days and run in rivairy with John L. Sulivan's place, around the corner. Mr. Murch is spending 88,000 or $10,000 in fittings, and expects to make his establishment as popular as that of the champion puglist. There will probably be a grand opening next week.

An officer accompanying President Arthur during his western trip says that the President never killed more game than could be used in camp, and, furthermore, that in breaking camp his orders were imperative to extinguish every vestige of fire, and for this purpose a force of men was always left behind. It is a pity that all the people in the mountains are not as care-ful, for thousands upon thousands of acres of valuable timber are destroyed every year by fires set by hunters and campers-out.

fires set by hunters and campers-out.

From official sources it is ascertained that our navy, improvised during the war, cost $84,-000,000, and the material and vessels were sold for $36,000,000, leaving the cost of the war navy about $48,000,000. In the eighteen years since the war the United States has spent for naval vessels only $3,000,000, while England has spent $165,000,000, France $88,000,000, Russia $35,600,000, Italy $32,000,000, Germany $37,-000,000, Turkey $17,000,000, Brazil $10,000,000 and Chili $7,000,000—all for iron clads.

A New Shakespeare.

Mn. WILLIAM SHARRSPEARE'S COMEDIES. HISTORIES.
TRACEDIES AND FORMS, the text newly edited, with glossarial, historical and explanatory notes, by Richard Grant White, (three volumes). Boston: Houghton, Mifflin & Co. The Riverside Press, Cambridge, 1882. Inside and out these volumes are in the very eat style for which the Riverside Press

" Plain without pomp, and rich without a show, neat style for which the Riverside Frees is famed:

"Plain without pomp, and rich without a show."
And of the soul that lives within the immost shell and shines gloriously throughout its material garb—of the genius of Shakespeare—we may quote a line of his own:

"Shew me your image in some antique book."
But we must not try to "gild refined gold."
The two most wonderful books in the world are the Bible and Shakespeare. Indeed, there are remarkable resemblances in them; in language, pure English of its day; Shakespeare and the translators of our Bible lived at the same time, in the same country and used the same language. Another agreement is in the presentation of human nature as it ever has been and is and forever will be until the milleanial age shall have come. There are differences, too, and first and chief, in purpose; the one is to win man to immortality in the new heavens and the new earth; while the other is to amuse and instruct in this world. Another is in presenting like pictures in different modes. To borrow an illustration from the fine arts, the portraits in the Old Testament are etchings, presenting boldly peculiarly characteristic features. For example, Abraham. He was highly favored by God, and we infer from a line here and there that he was fairly a good man, as the world judges rich, and the designated forefather of our Lord Jesus Christ, who "had not where to lay his head;" but we have him in bold relief, as a coward, a liar, and altogether so unworthy, in God's sight, that his faith alone was imputed to him for righteousness. Shakespeare has similar portraits, drawn with a few sharp strokes of his pen, but many are more like the work of the skillful steel engraver, with the lights and shades of character deftly drawn, and presenting a picture perfect in all its parts. The root and trunk of our language are "Teutonic"—quite rough in the bark, but exceedingly strong in the body—while the branches are from many tongues, grafted at various times, to adorn and soften. If, therefore, we would hav grafted at various times, to adorn and soften. If, therefore, we would have the history of our language, we must have books that were written at different epochs, and have them, as nearly as possible, precisely as the authors worde them. The late George P. Marsh—an acknowledged master in many tongues—named Wickliffe and his school as mines of wealth, and Chaucer and Shakespeare as masters of English in the fourteenth, sixteenth and beginning of the seventeenth centuries. A few years previous, however, to the advent of Mr. Marsh's admirable book on the English Language and its Literature, we sought a study of our language through the English classics printed as they were written. In this we succeeded measurably in covering the same period as did Mr. Marsh, but there was a shockingly broad history. in covering the same period as did Mr. Marsh, but there was a shockingly broad hiatus — no Shakespeare as he wrote—Hamlet with the part of Hamlet left out! We sorrowfully abandoned the scheme, and gave away our choice collection of old authors. In the preface to this Riverside edition, Mr. White says: "Its purpose is not to furnish material for critical study either of the Elizabethan dramstate or of the English language. It seeks atists or of the English language. It seeks rather to enable the reader of general intelli-gence to understand, and therefore to enjoy.

gence to understand, and therefore to enjoy, what Shakespeare wrote as nearly as possible in the very vay he would have understood and enjoyed it if he had lived in London in the reign of James I." Probably Mr. White d. es not mean that his edition of the great master of the language will not be useful in a critical study of it. First, this edition is a copy of the text of the folio edition of 1623, which was published only seven years after the poet's death; and secondly to the obsolete words, and words and phrases to which Shakespeare gave a peculiar meaning, Mr. White has added explanatory foot-notes, and he is well known as a competent critic; so we conclude that the Riverside edition fills as fully as possible the hiatus to which we have alluded above, and is at the same time far superior for general readers to any edition within our knowledge. The volumes are convenient to the hand, and the

* Mr. Marsh's book is an octavo, but we want a study of English in a hand-book or books, consisting of selec-tions from the classics in chronological order, and for similes of manuscripts, typography, and engravings. Mr. White and the Riverside are welcome to this hint.

N. W. FITZGERALD & Co. of Washington have been suspended from practice before the pension bureau. It is alleged that they extorted illegal fees and also filed pension claims for confederate soldiers.

MANY persons who seemingly have consumption have perfectly sound lungs, and their distress originates altog-ther from disordered kidneys and liver. Now there are thousands of remedies that will relieve kidney and liver diseases, but there is only one that can be depended upon for effecting a permanent cure, and that is Brown's Iron Bitters. Its efficacy has been satisfactority proven in thousands of instances after all other remedies failed.

COL A L CAMPBELL Walterboro S C.

COL. A. L. CAMPBELL, Walterboro, S. C., says: "A member of my family used Brown's Iron Bitters with good results."

The ex-sheriff of Iredell county, N. C., Mr. W. F. Wasson, says: "Brown's Iron Bitters has improved my digestion and general health."

In San Francisco, a new Chinese defrauding dodge is just discovered. Several packages containing between three and four thousand unstamped letters were brought on the steamer Tokio by self-appointed Chinese mail agents and were seized by the postal authorities.

Ir you are ruined in health from any cause, especially from the use of any of the thousand nostrums that promise so largely, with long fictitious testimonials, have no fear. Resert to Hop Bitters at once, and in a short time you will have the most robust and blooming health.

Business Motices.

"Dr. Benson's Celery and Chamomile Pills for the cure of Neuralgia are a success."—Dr. G. P. Holman, Christianburg, Virginia. Fifty cents at druggists. Worth ten dollars to any family is Dr. Kaufmann's book on diseases, finely illustrated plates from life; don't be humbugged but cure yourself. Send two three cent stamps for postage to A. P. Ordway & Co., Boston, Mass., and receive a copy free.

COUGHS, colds and sore throat are the com-mon result of going about with cold feet. Pre-vent all this and keep your feet warm with Wilsonia Magnetic Insoles. Made all sizes, Insoles for ladies are very thin. Price fifty cents at druggists and shoe dealers.

CATARRII.—The remarkable results in a dis-CATARHH.—The remarkable results in a dis-case so universal and with such a variety of characteristics as catarrh, prove how effect-uslly Hood's Sarsaparilla, acting through the blood, reaches every part of the human sys-tem. A medicine, like anything else, can be fairly judged only by its results. We point with pride to the glorious record Hood's Sarsa-parilla has entered upon the hearts of thou-sands of people it has cured of catarrh.

That husband of mine is three times the man he was before he began using "Wells' Health Renewer." S1. Druggists.

Now is the time to treat catarrh of long standing. Ely's Cream Balm reaches obstinate cases where other remedies fail. In it lies the relief you seek. Price fifty cents. Apply into nostrils with the finger. A GENTLEMAN from Orwell, Pa., called my attention to Ely's Cream Balm as a remedy for catarrh, hay fever, etc. He was so earnest in asserting it to be a positive cure (himself hav-ing been cured by it) that I purchased a stock. The Balm has already effected cures. P. F. Hyatt, M. D., Bordentown, N. J. I HAVE been a severe sufferer from catarrh for fifteen years, with distressing pain over my eyes. Gradually the disease worked down upon my lungs. About a year and a balf ago I began using Ely's Cream Balm, with most gratifying results, and am to-day apparently cured. Z. C. Warren, Rutland, Vt.

I am proud to say from personal experience that Sulphur Bitters, which advertisement will be seen in another column, is the best spring and blood medicine to be found. It is prepared by an honest firm who scorn to use cheap and worthless medicines, but use the best that money can buy.—Editor.

A CLERGYMAN, whose life was almost a burden to him, from a long course of suffering he had undergone, through that dreadful disease, catarrh, traveled through the East, seeking from the old and skilled doctors of Arabia, some remedy for this terrible disease. He was fortunate enough to come across one, who prescribed for him, and who, after he was cured, gave him the recipe, which has since saved so many. The reverend divine, on his death-bed, bequeathed the recipe to a friend, who is willing to send it free of charge, to all sufferers who desire it. Address, J. Lawrence, 250 Schermerhorn St., Brooklyn, N. Y.
